Two and a half years ago, Fort Wayne's first police officer to graduate from the police academy was assigned to a citizens review committee. While his first assignment involved a police officer who was accused of killing his wife, now

The proposed version of the county's new zoning and land use plan, which would affect almost 100,000 residents, was presented to the City Council Tuesday morning by Council Member Paul "Mike" Miller.

Miller described Miller as "one of the first seven judges of the Allen County Court,"

Miller's replacement continued to be a major concern. Allen County formed a solid waste district and now is looking for a permanent solid waste director.

Introduction

The 1991 Fort Wayne Newspaper Index offers over 36,000 subject references to specific articles in one of three local publications: the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette, the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, and Fort Wayne Business People.

The focus of the Index is local and state news, especially public policy and business information. For that reason, sports events and routine crimes are not generally indexed and name indexing is far from complete. Obituaries and announcements of engagements, marriages or births and personnel announcements are not indexed. News articles dealing with events outside the Allen County area are normally indexed under the name of the place.

The Index is arranged in subject order followed by the headline, the newspaper code, the date and the page. Editorials, guest columns, charts, graphs and photos are indicated.

Codes used for the publications indexed are as follows:

BP Fort Wayne Business People
JG Journal-Gazette
NS News-Sentinel

We wish to thank the Walter E. Helmke Library and Indiana University-Purdue University, Fort Wayne for their continuing support. We want to acknowledge and thank especially Ted Hunsberger for supervising the computer production of this index and Ann Rudig for her many hours of data entry.

Preface

Great international turmoil and change characterized the year 1991, starting with Operation Desert Storm and ending with the disintegration of the Soviet Union and the return of the last U.S. hostages from Lebanon. Local reserve and national guard units were sent to Saudi Arabia to participate in Operation Desert Storm while supporters at home initiated yellow-ribbon campaigns and arranged for school children to send letters.

In Fort Wayne the born-again Fort Wayne Komets reached the Turner Cup finals. The Fort Wayne Fury played its first games and the negotiations to bring a minor league baseball team to Fort Wayne were nearly completed. The Ben Hogan Fort Wayne Open was a new feature of the Mad Anthonyms.

The construction of the INB Center was approved. Summit Bank took over the management of the Midtowne Crossing project.

Drugs and crime, especially drive-by shootings, continued to plague residents of the city. In the meantime, numerous incidents of police misconduct forced the establishment of a citizens review committee. The most publicized incident involving a police officer was the trial of David Becher who was acquitted of killing his wife Jana.

In May the Adams Center Landfill announced plans to double its size, initiating another round of protests from Allen County Dump Stoppers and others. New Haven mayor Lynn Shaw who opposed the expansion, was re-elected in a landslide.

The Allen County planners introduced Allen County 2000, the county's new land use plan.

Work on the U.S. 24 interchange of the I-469 bypass was halted when workers discovered remnants of the old Gronauer Canal.

The proposed merger of the St. Joseph Medical Center and Lutheran Hospital was called off.

In city elections, Fort Wayne mayor Paul Helmke won easily over his Democratic challenger Charlie Belch. Republican Rebecca Ravine won election to the City Council replacing long-time council member Paul "Mike" Burns.

Nancy Eschoff Boyer was named by Governor Bayh to be the first woman judge of the Allen County Superior Court.

Waste management continued to be a major concern. Allen County formed a solid waste district and hired a Kentucky firm to prepare the waste management plan required by law.

The courts cleared the way for the annexation of over 23,000 St. Joseph township residents.

Baer Field, which gained a customs office but lost both Burlington Air Express and its bid for a new postal hub, was renamed Fort Wayne International Airport.

In East Allen County Schools racial balance, AIDS education and enrollment drops were the major concerns. Southwest Allen County Schools debated adding a swimming pool to the high school. The Fort Wayne Community Schools reorganized into a feeder system concept. The Board defeated a resolution calling for the resignation of superintendent William Coats.
